Twin Peaks Bore Scene of Terror, When Great Crash Comes

Wounded Men Rushed to Hospitals in Ambulances

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—One man was killed and eleven others badly injured when frames erected to support concrete pillars in the west portal of Twin Peaks tunnel suddenly collapsed at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

A gang of men were at work in and around the supports when they suddenly gave way. Many were able to secure safe positions on both sides of the excavation, but an even dozen were caught in the collapse.

Those hurt include three carpenters and nine laborers.

The dead man is: F. BARNET, carpenter; fractured skull, cuts on face and arms, numerous lacerations and bruises; suffering from shock.

Probably fatally injured are: NICK DOBIASH, laborer; incised wounds, nose and chin, two incised wounds in scalp, fractured ribs, possible internal injuries.

UNIDENTIFIED CARPENTER, fractured upper jaw, fractured nose, possibly fractured skull.

The seriously injured are: J. McBRIDE, laborer; foot crushed, right leg broken, bruises and lacerations.

J. SPROCK, bruised, of the chest, lacerations and contusions of the body.

LAWRENCE KILLILEA, bruises of the back, sprains of both ankles.

In addition there were four laborers who were slightly cut and bruised and who declined to go to a hospital, but were taken to their homes. All of those hurt were treated at the city and county hospital and the park emergency hospital.

The accident happened after the men had been in the tunnel about an hour and a half. The supports are first put up, and then the carpenters' frames placed for the reception of concrete. These are on an extensive scale and they gave way almost without warning. The other men in the tunnel who were not hurt managed to scamper to safety after hearing a slight noise which preceded the crash.

The staging fell with a detonation which could be heard for several blocks. The workmen who escaped immediately rescued their fellows from the tangled mass of boards and timbers.

Ambulances were called and as soon as the men had been carried out they were hurried to the hospital. The park emergency hospital took care of two and the city and county hospital which was nearer the scene looked after the rest.

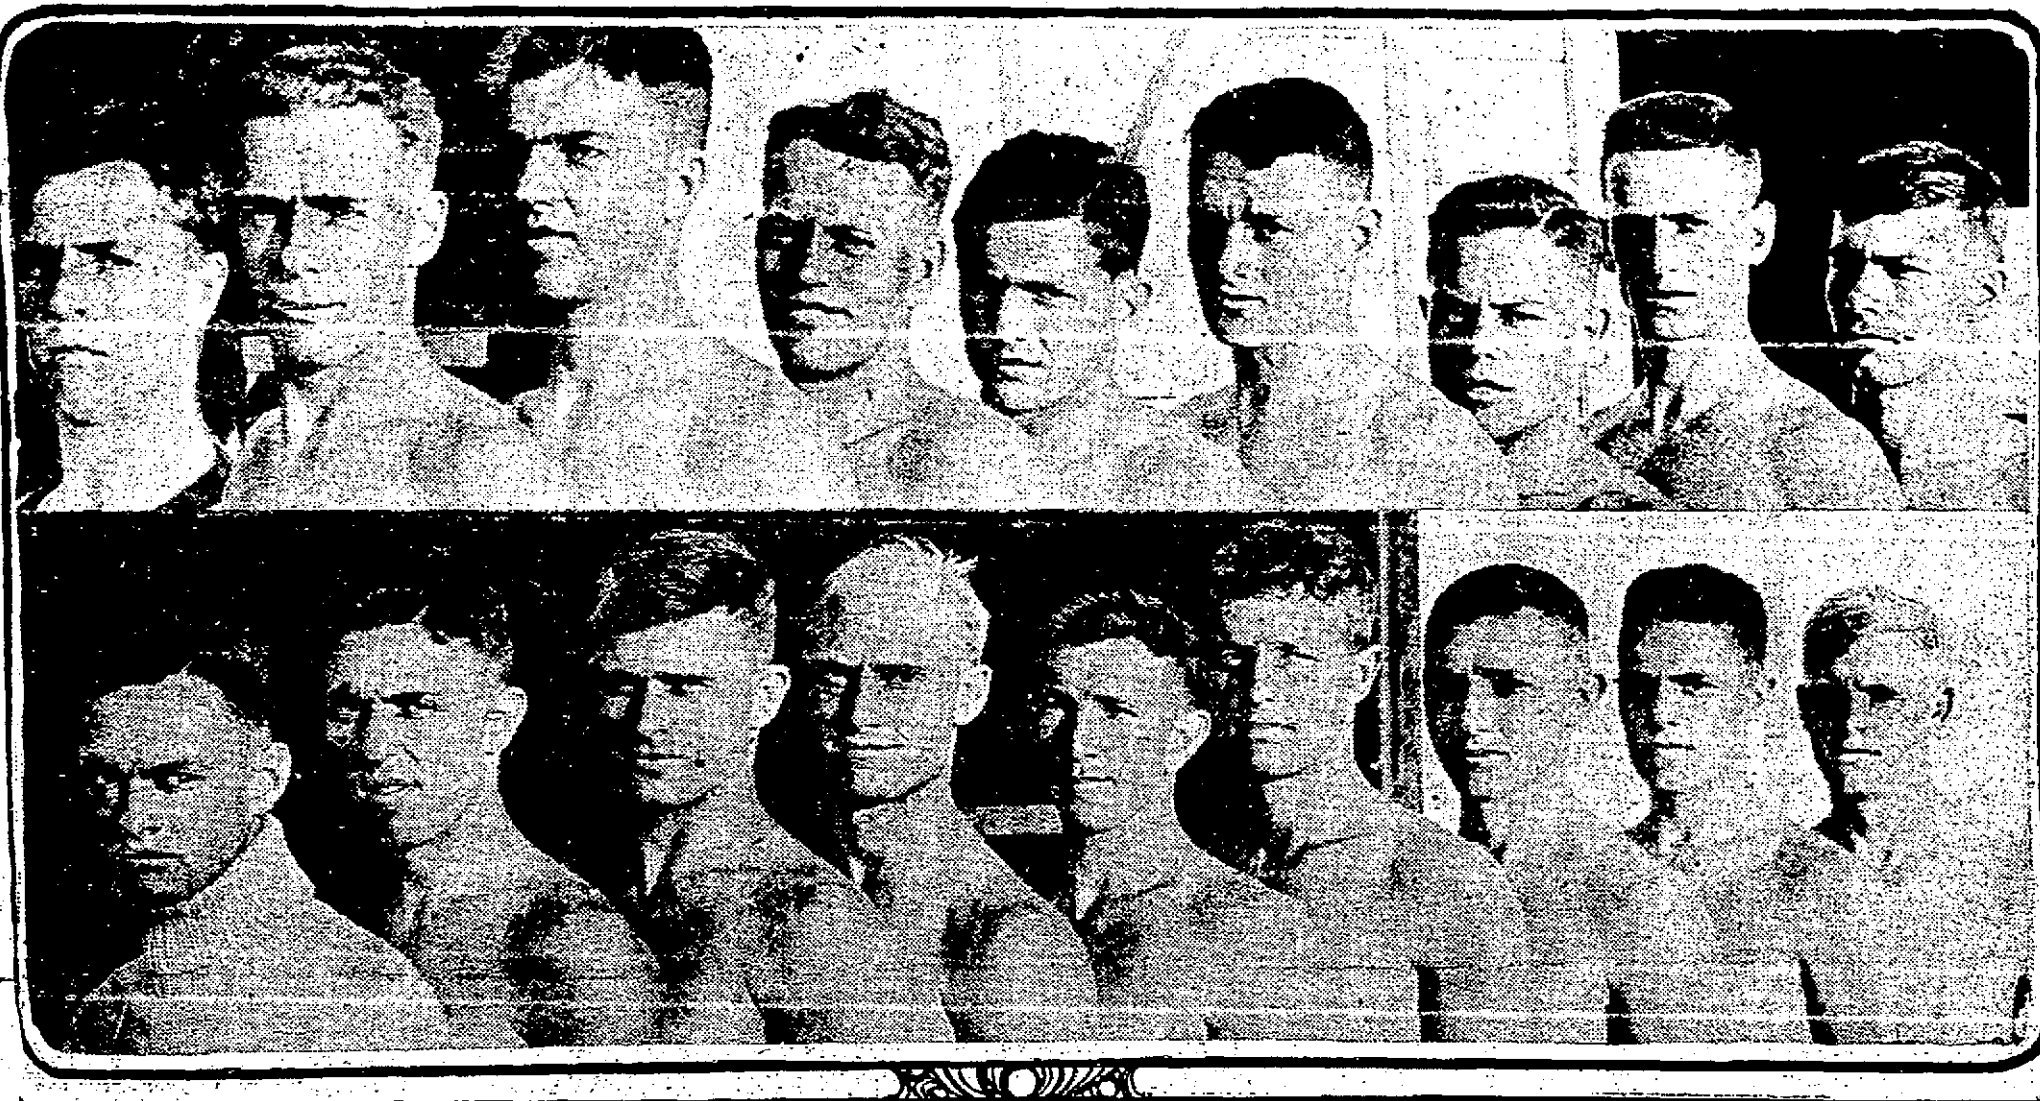

R. C. Storrie & Co. are the contractors.

Varsity Crew and Freshies Each Score Triumph

Washington and California Distanced Nobly by Palo Altans

Under ideal conditions of weather and tide, Stanford University this morning captured both Varsity and Freshman races from Washington and California in the annual intercollegiate regatta on the Oakland estuary.

Washington was a good second in both races and California a poor third.

The victory of the Cardinal in the big race of the day was unexpected, but fully earned, for the three mile classic was rowed in 15:37.4, the fastest time ever made on the course. As in the Freshman race, the Stanford crew lead from the very start, striking perfectly and finishing in splendid physical condition.

Thousands of excited partisans thronged both sides of the three mile course, and followed the tolling crews by special trains and hundreds of small boats. A special excursion steamer, chartered by 1000 Stanford rowers, followed close behind the Government launch, which guarded the course, and from this boat, the Cardinal's cheer of victory was roared into the crisp morning air.

CALIFORNIA DISAPPOINTED. The disappointment of the California rowers was keen, for the most strenuous efforts have been made during the past year under Coach Stephenson to develop a crew that would do the full-end performance which have characterized California's showing on the water.

Ill luck, accidents, and sickness which prevented the California boys from working out together consistently during the past few weeks were given as excuses for the Blue and Gold.

The Cardinal had good cause to gloat for both "babies" and veterans ran true to form—even superior—and their work could not have been better. Coach Gueterson was picked up at the conclusion of the varsity race, and Stanford's triumph on the shoulders of his admirers.

The Varsity race shortly after the start resolved itself into a nip and tuck contest between Stanford and Washington, and up to the first half the two shells were neck and neck, but the Stanford crew was a half a length apart. At the start there was little to pick between the two crews in a matter of stroke. The Northerners maintained a 31 stroke throughout the first mile, and Stanford was taking it a pull or two slower.

FAST STROKE LOSES. At the one mile flag it was evident that Washington was losing a little of its steadiness. A faster stroke was adopted by both teams, but Washington's apparent nervousness at the very fast stroke given them by their coxswain took away their even swing, and at times bow and stern showed wash on their oars.

The official stroke given out was 21 for Stanford and 23 for Washington during the last half, but according to the timing of Coach Counibear the Washington boys picked up to at least a 36. According to Coach Counibear the Stanford boys were not as much too fast as they were at the start.

The oarsmen in the Northern shell showed great grit by keeping up with the stroke, and it was undoubtedly due to the fact that they were well trained and coached to a faster stroke than the Cardinal crew. The Stanford crew was given the fast stroke too soon in the

Stefansson Searchers Safe, Letters Report

By Associated Press. SIOUX CITY, Ia., April 10.—Letters received by Mrs. R. M. Anderson of this city disprove reports that the southern party of the Canadian Arctic expedition had been lost in the wastes of Northern Canada, or was drifting about the northern seas with but little hopes of rescue. The messages came to Mrs. Anderson from her husband, Dr. Rudolph M. Anderson, who is in charge of the expedition, and were written from Herschel Island, September 12, 1914.

At the time the letters were written the Wilkins relief party had passed Bailey Island on its way to Banks Land. With the ocean about Banks Land said to be free from ice, the party should be able to have advanced some considerable distance to the north in search of Stefansson and his companions.

FRENCH ARE
VERDUN

By Associated Press.

LONDON, April 10.—The French, with the capture of Les Eparges, have obtained one of the main objects of their advance to the southeastward from Verdun. The position at Les Eparges dominates the plains of the Meuse, and its occupation by the French is announced officially.

Progress from Verdun means heavier pressure on the northern flank of the Germans holding St. Mihiel, while the southern flank is threatened by the French advance between Pont A Mousson and the Meuse.

In the southern part of this field of operations the Germans are delivering almost continuous counter attacks. They have made fifteen assaults on one point. It is evident that the French are not only attempting to capture St. Mihiel, which always has been a danger point since its wedge was driven into the line of the allies, but are at the same time seeking to aid Russia by preventing the withdrawal of German troops for the relief of the hard-pressed Austrians and German forces in the Carpathians.

Rumors that Austria is about to conclude a separate peace grow in number and persistence every day. These are accompanied by evidences that Italy is showing increasing uneasiness over the situation.

FRENCH SHIP IS TORPEDOED

By Associated Press. LE TREPOT, France, April 10.—The French three-masted ship Chateaubriand, from London for New York, with a cargo of chalk, was sunk by a German submarine off the Isle of Wight at 11 a. m. Thursday. The crew was saved.

HUNGRY BOY HOLDS UP JITNEY
DRIVER RESISTS; CULPRIT CAPTURED
SAYS FATHER IS U. S. OFFICER

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—Without a cent in his pocket, and after he had walked the streets for a week searching employment, Homer C. Newman, who says that his father is "secretary of the United States Government in the Philippine Islands," and who, until recently, was a student in the University of California, attempted to beat and rob a jitney driver at 2 o'clock this morning, and is now in the city prison on a felony charge. He has made a complete confession. His victim, Benjamin Fowles, who lives at 2308 Market street, narrowly escaped death and is at the Central Emergency hospital with a long gash in his scalp.

Young Newman is a graduate of the Cogswell Polytechnic college of this city. He went to the University of California for a year and then enrolled at Stanford university, but never attended.

Instead, he went to Shasta to work and afterwards took a trip to Los Angeles, returning here to find starvation knocking at his door.

"I never had any idea of holding up anybody," said Newman in his cell at the city prison this morning. "I have been unlucky, that's all. I went to Los Angeles believing I would like the climate and could get work, but times were hard and I just had enough money to get here. I did my best to get work here, but I couldn't. I was at Third and Market streets last night when I saw a piece of gaspise. I picked it up. It seemed to bring murder into my heart. I wouldn't willingly hurt anybody, but the idea of holding somebody up kept coming back at me. I walked along and then I thought that a jitney driver would be the easiest victim. I jumped into a machine. It was marked 'Owl, we go anywhere.'"

"I told him to take me to Vallejo street. I had been there before and I knew it was dark. When the right chance came I hit the driver over the head. I thought it would stun him, but it didn't, and he fought me and I ran and was caught. I am awfully sorry for all this. I am not a bad boy. I have worked hard, but I am simply down and out."

Young Newman is charged with assault with intent to commit robbery. He appeared in the police court this morning, but his case was continued.

FRANK RUTHERFORD
PASSES.

By Associated Press. SACRAMENTO, April 10.—Assemblyman Frank M. Rutherford of Truckee died in a hospital here this morning.

He had been ill since January 12 with typhoid fever, having been stricken while attending the sessions. Rutherford was a native of Wyandotte, Butte county, and was 45 years old. He was a graduate of the San Jose State Normal and had been practicing law for 15 years. He was a member of the board of trustees of the Chico State Normal and was serving his fourth term as assemblyman. He was formerly district attorney of Nevada county and was a member and held high offices in the Masonic, Shriners, Native Sons and Knights of Pythias orders.

Rutherford was the majority floor leader in the assembly at the time he was taken ill.

K. RUTTSCHNITT

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, April 10.—Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the executive committee of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific, appeared as a witness today before the United States committee on industrial relations. His career as a railroad man began as a civil engineer on a Louisiana railroad in 1878, he said, and rose by steady promotion.

"Prior to the strike of 1911," said Mr. Kruttschnitt, "our relations with our workmen were pleasant. In May, 1911, however, we heard that the shopcrafts, meeting at Salt Lake City, had decided to federate. We were informed of this later, and federation officials asked for a conference. We replied that we had contracts with the industrial crafts and were prepared to deal with them as we always did."

"This was not satisfactory to the

P. P. E. CHIEF L. A. CHIEF KILLED BY AUTO
AGAIN

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, April 10.—Carl Theodore Francis Bitter, chief of the department of sculpture of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, and one of the best known sculptors in this country, died in a hospital here today of injuries he incurred when he and Mrs. Bitter were run down last night by an automobile in Broadway. Mrs. Bitter's injuries are not serious.

Bitter was director of sculpture of the Buffalo Exposition and chief of the department of sculpture of the St. Louis Exposition. He had executed many important private commissions, including the statue of Carl Schurz here and works in the homes of Collis P. Huntington, Cornelius Vanderbilt and other wealthy men. He designed the Astor Gates for Trinity Church here.

HIS HUMBLE BEGINNING. He was a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters and an academicien of the National Academy of Design.

Bitter was 47 years old, coming here in 1889 from Vienna, where he was born. His home was in this city.

Bitter made his advent into sculpture as a skilled laborer. He was employed in this capacity by a firm of architectural decorators, when he entered a contest for design of the $200,000 bronze doors at Trinity Church, known as the Astor memorial gates. He won the contest and with this money as a foundation opened a small studio and started his career as a sculptor.

Engine Turns Turtle; 3 Trainmen Injured

By Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—The engine of south-bound Southern Pacific train No. 19 was overturned and four cars were derailed in a wreck near Gonzales, Cal., thirty-five miles south of Watsonville, Cal., early today.

The fireman, W. W. Strain, was scalded seriously and two mail clerks were hurt.

No passengers were hurt.

By Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, April 10.—Charles E. Sebastian, chief of police, who was indicted several days ago on the charge of having contributed to the delinquency of Edith Serkin, a minor, was indicted again today for like alleged offenses against Victoria Desparte. Miss Desparte also was indicted. The charge against her in perjury. Miss Desparte was remanded to jail in default of $2500 bail on the perjury charge. Sebastian being already under bonds of $7500 on two indictments charging him with the Serkin offense, and also alleged attempts to intimidate the grand jury, was not required to furnish further security.

The indictment against Sebastian today was voted by the grand jury in a session called to investigate the confession Miss Desparte made to Judge Taft of the Superior Court yesterday that her sworn statement to the investigators two weeks ago, accusing Sebastian was a fabrication. Officials of the district attorney's office said that the jury had shown that it placed no credence in that girl's reputation by indicting Sebastian on her original charge, and then indicting the girl herself for perjury.

The bills were filed in the court of President Judge Wood, in the midst of preliminary proceedings against Sebastian and his attorney, Earl Rogers, on the indictments returned against them several days ago alleging that they attempted to influence the grand jury during the investigation of the case.

The indictment returned today also accuses the police chief of an offense against Miss Desparte's chum, Lucille Livingston, who appeared with her at the first inquiry, and was a witness presumably against her, today.

GOVERNOR REPRIEVES BOY SLAYER BUNDY TO INVESTIGATE HIS CRIME

By Associated Press. SACRAMENTO, April 10.—Governor Johnson today reprieved Louis Bundy, 18 years old, the Los Angeles murderer, who killed a messenger boy in 1912 in order to buy a present for his sweetheart, until June 18, 1915. Bundy was to have been hanged April 23.

The governor said innumerable representations have been made to him in behalf of Bundy and he has been asked to exercise clemency. He desired to make a full investigation, both of the criminal and the crime, and as the legislative session has prevented him from doing this as yet, the reprieve is granted to give him an opportunity to investigate the case more fully.

GARFIELD DEFENDS HIS DEAD WIFE'S MEMORY

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—Chase Garfield, the Los Angeles automobile man whose wife Beatie died yesterday from the effects of poison taken with suicidal intent, is overcome with grief. He arrived in San Francisco last night and declared that he had no idea that his wife contemplated ending her life.

Explaining the letter which was found torn to shreds in Mrs. Garfield's room at the Buckingham apartments, Garfield said:

"Our 11-year-old son was standing beside me when I was writing to my wife, and I asked him why he didn't write to his mother. He said, 'She doesn't love me any more than she does you.' I wrote his words in the letter. No doubt when my wife read that she believed that neither I nor the child still cared for her."

AUSTRIANS ON DEFENSIVE

By Associated Press. GENEVA, via Paris, April 10.—Austria has abandoned the idea of launching a surprise offensive against Serbia, the Tribune says. It has learned from an absolutely reliable source, and will remain strictly on the defensive in order to send additional army corps to the Italian frontier. The same authority is quoted as asserting that it was decided to Vienna to accept Russia on the subject of peace, but it is impossible to know what results might be.

The Russians made important capture of artillery and war munitions in the recent fighting in the Carpathians, according to dispatches to Swiss newspapers. In the county of Saros alone they took two batteries of 12-inch mortars, four other batteries of different calibres, twenty quick-firers and 700 shells for the 12-inch guns.

Figures received here purporting to come from the Austrian general staff place at 26,000 the losses in the battle on the Dukla-Eperies front.

BRITISH APPLAUD U. S. AMBASSADOR

LONDON, April 10.—A "white paper" concerning the treatment of British prisoners in Germany has been issued. It consists of a series of letters, documents and correspondence between British and German officials. The paper is a sympathetic one.

Mr. Walsh referred to trouble with the German and British governments. He said that in 1902, when Union Pacific crafts struck in opposition to the piece-work system, E. H. Harriman met with the federated crafts of that road.

"I was general manager of the Southern Pacific at the time and had no connection with the Union Pacific," replied Mr. Kruttschnitt. He did not recollect that the Southern Pacific shopmen took a vote on a sympathetic strike.

GENERAL HUERTA.

The return of General Huerta to the American side of the Atlantic is not likely to affect seriously the situation in Mexico. That Huerta is personally ambitious to re-establish himself in connection with Mexican affairs is probably true. A man who has had a taste of authority and power is usually more than willing to re-enter the game; and it may easily be believed that this impulse is especially strong in one who feels that he was arbitrarily thrust out from a place to which he was fairly entitled.

It is the opinion of many, the Tribune among them, that if left to his own courses, undisturbed by American interference, General Huerta might have dominated and ultimately pacified Mexico. He had precisely the qualities which the situation demanded. He held military possession of the most populous and the richest part of the country. He had, until his prestige was affected by American policy, credit in Europe. If the field had been left as it ought to have been left—as President Wilson himself now declares it should be left—undisturbed by American policy, Huerta probably would have duplicated the success of his great predecessor, Diaz. It is true that Diaz governed Mexico in the name of constitutional authority. But he was as definitely a king, in truth much more definitely a king, than any man who has sat on a throne in current times. He gave to Mexico the one species of government her masses were able to comprehend, the one species of government possible in a country of half savage conditions. It was a rough-riding system, but nothing less can hold authority with the Mexican people.

The conditions which enabled General Huerta to play his part in the affairs of Mexico three years ago no longer obtain. His command of the national army, or of any military force, is gone. His prestige with the Mexican property class has been lost by failure. He has no resources, no money, no means of getting money. Sources in Europe available to him in the period of his presidency are closed. The war in Europe has made a situation which shuts every door there. General Huerta returns therefore to meet a situation very different from that which gave him his original hold upon the country and which sustained him in it for nearly two years. The day of his opportunity, unless some new and unlikely situation should arise, is past.

The judgment of time, we believe, will class General Huerta among the pathetic pictures of Mexican history. He must be ranked with those who have failed, not because he lacked strength, as Mexico understands strength, not because he lacked personal power, not because he lacked courage, not because he lacked anything essential to the enterprise he boldly undertook, but because in the carrying out of his plans he encountered an illegitimate and in the last analysis a malicious opposition on the part of the government at Washington. American policy, whimsically conceiving him an enemy of the peace of Mexico, thwarted and crippled him at every turn and ultimately drove him from the country. The incident is not one of which the American people may be proud.

MIEN AND METHODS IN GOVERNMENT.

Replying to a correspondent who expressed the hope that this country, following the administration of President Wilson, would "return to the standards of the McKinley administration" when governmental affairs were conducted in a business way by business men, the Philadelphia Press makes the very interesting assertion that the United States has never been administered by business men or under business methods. And the Press is quite right. President McKinley was not a business man, but a lawyer by profession and a politician by propensity and experience. He made but one known venture in the business sphere when he endorsed a note for a relative and friend for sums far beyond his ability to pay and had to be rescued from the bankruptcy court by a syndicate subscription. Mr. McKinley had no special knowledge of business matters, nor had the members of his cabinet. Half of them were lawyers and all of them were politicians, with perhaps a single exception.

Curiously enough, even in those departments of the government which relate especially to business affairs, the greatest successes have been made by lawyers. Alexander Hamilton, the first and greatest Secretary of the Treasury, was a lawyer and a politician. Albert Gallatin, likewise was a lawyer. Salmon P. Chase, the great war secretary, was a lawyer and a politician and at a later period won renewed fame as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. John Sherman, another lawyer and politician, carried the treasury back to the specie payment basis.

Practically all the men who have gained distinction in administrative life in relatively recent times have been lawyers. Abraham Lincoln was a lawyer and no man of business. His Secretary of War, Stanton, was likewise a lawyer. Coming down to current times, Elihu Root is a corporation lawyer. President Taft is a lawyer and was a judge. Grover Cleveland was a lawyer. John Hay was a journalist. Theodore Roosevelt, so far as he has any non-political profession, is an author and publicist. Woodrow Wilson was a college professor. Comparatively few business men have found place in the administrative life of the country. John Wanamaker, the Philadelphia merchant, made a success of the Post Office department, but Lyman Gage, a famous Chicago banker in his day, was an indifferent Secretary of the Treasury. McAdoo, the present Secretary of the Treasury, who ranks as a man of business, has not profoundly impressed himself upon the country.

The truth is that the affairs of the government cannot possibly be conducted upon a business basis and by business methods. The procedure all down the line of governmental administration is defined by laws, many of them inconsistent with business principles, many of them antiquated. Things must be done either under the direction of inelastic statutes or in conformity with precedent. More than one well meaning and highly intentioned official has entered upon his responsibilities with a fixed purpose to enforce business ideas and methods only to find himself balked and thwarted at every turn and ultimately disappointed. Before we can have business methods in the government there must be a wholesale reconstruction of the legal machinery of government.

THE LIBERTY BELL.

Housed and guarded in Independence Hall the Liberty Bell is, indeed, a precious relic. But practically it is like the talent which a faithful but little enterprising servant, as we are told in the Good Book, so carefully preserved that it wrought no service and gained no increase.

The Liberty Bell, carried to Chicago in 1893, told its story, gave its inspiration of patriotism to millions. It was fit that the bell which proclaimed the birth of Liberty on the shore of the Atlantic should, even though mute, attend, and in a manner confirm by its presence the expansion of liberty to the great interior West. Again it was fit that the Liberty Bell should make the journey to the Charleston Exposition, there again to proclaim the triumph of Liberty as illustrated in a reunited country.

The reasons which justified the journey of the Liberty Bell to Chicago and its other journey to Charleston now appeal for its coming to California. It is eminently proper that this classic symbol of Liberty should bestow its benediction, so to speak, upon this new world of the Pacific and at the same time associate itself with the largest and highest physical achievement in the world's history.

The considerations urged in denial are technical and trivial. They represent the selfishness—we came near saying the self-interest—of a parochial council rather than the broad and liberal spirit which should hold authority in a matter whose relationships are not only national but universal. The Liberty Bell should now come to California. And in process of years, if there shall be further expansion of the American system—of that liberty which was first proclaimed from the tower of Independence Hall—then the Liberty Bell should go there, even though the journey might carry it to the uttermost ends of the earth. If this sacred symbol shall continue, by its history and its inspirations, to serve the cause of liberty, it should be associated with every great movement which marks the expansion and the authority of American ideas.

There are indications that the governing authorities of Italy may not be able much longer to hold in leash the sympathetic ardor of the country. Almost to a man the Italians are in sympathy with the allies. This does not imply any special understanding of the immediate situation, or any opinion about it. Rather it is a product of old loves and of old hates. Between the Italians and the French there are affinities of blood and language and a general spirit of friendliness, due to more or less intimate association. On the other hand, between the Italians and the Austrians, there is an accumulation of antipathies. All the greater wars in which modern Italy has had part have tended to deepen this feeling. There is today perhaps no more profound sentiment of ill-will between any two peoples than that which divides the Italians and the Austrians. In the present conflict the Italian people are in warm sympathy with their immediate neighbors on the north, and this feeling is reflected in the army. It bursts out in a hundred manifestations of impatience while the Italian government is busy with its diplomatic dickerings, and there is no assurance that it may long be restrained below the boiling-over point. If we may believe private advices, the popular sentiment of Italy may any hour force the hand of the government.

The San Francisco city government is apparently finding it hard to allow what is politely styled the "traditional gaieties" of that city to be maintained without going back to the "wide open" basis. Persons of common intelligence do not find it difficult to distinguish between what is decent and indecent in public or private conduct. Surely it should be practicable to enact ordinances that will permit the one and prohibit the other. For many years the method in New York has been to establish rigid laws, then to commit their enforcement to police inspectors of presumed judgment. At times it has not always worked well. Very serious abuses have developed under it. Broadly speaking, it is not safe to bestow upon anybody arbitrary and summary powers of restraint or license. But for the relatively brief season of the Exposition some means involving this principle might be made to work satisfactorily. But if there be no solution of the matter except to put the city on a wide-open basis, then, we think, the laws which have been enforced during the past year would better be sustained. The withdrawal of all restraints upon commercialized vice is too heavy a price to pay for the making of a holiday period for the entertainment of Exposition visitors.

Impeachment charges against Judge John L. Childs of Del Norte county will be considered by a legislative committee next Monday evening. Petitions of impeachment against Judges J. P. Wood and John York of Los Angeles county have been presented to the legislature by one John Lapague, who is just now serving a jail sentence in Los Angeles. These incidents are trivial in their way. None of the several cases is expected to come to anything. Yet taken together they reflect seriously upon a department of state government. Here is mischief, serious indeed. Once discredit our courts and our whole system falls to the ground, since men will not support or yield obedience to a government which cannot give assurance of justice as between citizens. This situation, as illustrated by the instances above cited, mark one of the effects of that scheme of political "progress" which has ruled in our affairs these four years past. It is a progress which tends to water down the forces of social organization. This is the tendency of the whole scheme of ultra-progressivism. Those who have ardently supported this scheme appear never to have observed that the vices of weakness, in government as in other things, are infinitely more dangerous and grievous in their effects than the vices of strength. Just as a weak man is always a poor and cringing creature, so weak arms or departments of government tend to infirmity of the body politic.

The Director-General of the Pan-American Union appeals to financiers and business men the country over to take an interest in the Financial Conference to be held in Washington May 24th. This appeal is suggestive of the central point in this whole matter of South American commercial relations. Preliminary to the putting on of ships and the sending of drummers and all the rest of it, there must be some definite arrangement looking to financing the Latin-American countries. It is futile to expect to establish trade relations on a large scale by any other method. Europe has engrossed the Latin-American trade ever since it grew to importance by a careful financing system, and there is no use making efforts in this direction upon any other basis.

True worth is in being, not seeming. In doing each day that goes by. Some little good, not in dreaming. Of great things to do by and by. For whatever men say in blindness. Or in spite of their fancies of youth. There is nothing so kingly as kindness. And nothing so royal as truth.

There is a widely expressed suspicion in England that the raiding Zeppelins were guided at night by the upturned lamps of motor cars. Powerful reflectors were used and after signals were sent aloft the cars sped along the roads with these upturned lamps to assist the marksmen aloft in locating the property to be damaged by German bombs. At any rate, the government is now watching all cars that go about after dark, to make sure that they are in the hands of friends. The Zeppelin raiders have a short life if we are to believe the English newspapers. The English have traced the Zeppelins L-3 and L-4, which started Kings Lynn to their destruction, respectively, off the

"The great armaments of the European powers," says his letter, "have for long been a standing menace to peace and instead of saving us from the catastrophe which they were professedly intended to avert, they have made the catastrophe all the more terrifying and deadly."

"War's New Weapons," by Hrolf von Dewitz, which Dodd, Mead & Co. publish this week, is a description of all the new instruments of battle, for use on or under the sea, on land, or in the air, which are having their first trials in the present struggle. The instruments themselves, their uses, their effects upon warfare, and their achievements are described and discussed by the author, who was formerly an officer in the Danish navy and is an inventor and astronomer.

Lord's Prayer on End of Gold Needle.

Engraving the Lord's Prayer, containing sixty-five words of 254 letters and nineteen punctuation marks, on the end of a gold needle and immediately following this with the execution of a monogram of three letters on the point of a similar gold needle, Godfrey Lundberg, engraver, sculptor and musician of Spokane, has completed what is believed by his friends to be the smallest piece of engraving ever accomplished.

"GREAT Expectations." This is the title of one of Dickens' most successful novels. Every one knows that the "Great Expectations" did not materialize, but that something very much better took their place. That might be the subject of an essay very pertinent to the times in which we find ourselves, at the opening of a "World's Fair." For it is hard for our people to live up to all that is expected of them. We are told to realize a dream of hospitality—a dream that has deepened into a tradition. The legend might have had a foundation of fact in the old days, but it is impossible to carry it out now—not the way it is expected of us. And it is not our fault if the much vaunted "climate" fails to behave as one might wish it to do. For it has been a rainy season.

But there is really a great deal of hospitality being dispensed everywhere. There are luncheons and dinners innumerable, almost every well known woman entertaining when and where she can. And now the effort will be made at the California building to do something for the passing guest, the woman who does not happen to have any friends around the bay. Meantime it is very amusing to hear some of the comments of the hostesses from the East, in the big state buildings. One of them informed a group of well-known California women the other day that she was never so disappointed in her life as at the lack of flowers in her building.

"Why," she said, "we arranged our whole scheme with reference to the flowers. We depended upon them to brighten our reception, and rest rooms, and we thought you California women would make sure that we were overwhelmed with them."

It was the California woman who was "overwhelmed" with the magnitude of the undertaking. One matron who has ruled in the smart set for 50 years, many years, was promptly the defender of California. "You see it's a matter of 'great expectations,'" she said. "I remember my disappointment when I came to California as a little girl. I couldn't pick up any gold in the street, and Chinamen were not of china at all, they wouldn't break."

And she added, gently, that two cities in the Union were practically without gardens, Baltimore and San Francisco,—both because they had been fire swept. And that in San Francisco, many people bought their flowers. In fact, the decorations in the California building are being paid for.

But the little hostess refused to be comforted, she wanted great bowls of lilac, and to pick oranges from trees growing on the highway.

However, the rain is practically over, and every one who fails to realize the beauty of the Golden Gate, of the magnificent bay, of the majestic mountain ranges, will not love our California, and so other things will not matter. One of the most popular of the many activities at the Exposition are the daily dansants in the ballroom of the California building. Here indeed, is hospitality. The Exposition band plays, and the dancing is free to all. Tea is served to anyone who wants it, for just the nominal charge of fifty cents.

The dansants are perfectly chaperoned. To Alameda county is assigned many days each month—but we are the neighboring county, it is not difficult for the women of the Auxiliary to reach the Exposition grounds.

Mrs. Poser, our chairman over here, has agreed to be responsible for all the Monday afternoons in each month, for two Fridays, and for two Sundays. There is no dancing on Sunday, but the Exposition band plays. The Auxiliary members who are chaperones of the afternoon are expected to remove their hats and to be the hostesses of the afternoon. In that way the dansants will be kept up to a standard of excellence, befitting the California building.

Luncheons are now served in the tearoom of the California building. They are table d'hôte luncheons, and are served at the moderate price of seventy-five cents.

There are many interchanges of courtesies at the Exposition, and a certain kindness of heart, a friendly spirit of comradeship is sure to deepen as the days go by.

SHARON RECEPTION NOTABLE EVENT.

One of the largest receptions of the year around the bay was that given by Mrs. W. E. Sharon on Thursday, in honor of Miss Hazel Ingels, whose engagement to Robert Sharon was announced this winter.

MISS FLORENCE DON, A BELLE OF THE YOUNGER SET IN EAST BAY SOCIETY.

Many years ago the Sharon's built their home in the high plateau overlooking Piedmont, and while many homes are now higher in the hills, it still commands a magnificent stretch of scenery, wonderful in its far horizons.

The day was ideal for the reception, with the spring sunshine out of doors, and a great wealth of spring bloom within. Happy is the hostess who can entertain in the spring time, and in tulip time. The Sharon home was very lovely. In the hall were great jars of early syringa, and superb long stemmed tulips adorned the drawing room. There were great sprays of rambler roses, and the first early roses from the beautiful Piedmont blooms added a splendid note of color to some of the loveliest decorations seen on this side of the bay in many months.

It is rarely that so many generations are represented in both families. On the Sharon side were Mrs. Mygatt, Mrs. Sharon's mother, Mrs. Sharon, the latter's daughters, Mrs. Herbert Hamilton Brown and Mrs. Harry Farr—and their children.

In the receiving line with Mrs. Sharon were Miss Hazel Ingels, Mrs. Ingels, and the latter's mother, Mrs. Hutchins of San Mateo.

The Sharons are so well known around the bay, that their list for an "at home" is a long one, and the large home was crowded from 3 to 6, the hours of the reception, several hundred guests being in attendance.

The costumes worn by members of the receiving party and of the guests as well were specially effective. Mrs. Sharon's gown represented a fine design in yellow brocade silk. It was very beautifully trimmed in gold lace, and her ornaments were diamonds. Miss Ingels, the bride-elect, was very charming indeed. Her very pretty gown was along the Victorian lines, which are very quaint, and old-fashioned, and altogether picturesque when worn by a young girl. The gown was of yellow tulle, made with deep flounces and very prettily trimmed in lace. She was a very attractive bride-elect.

"Pussy willow silks" were much in evidence at the reception, and Mrs. Ingels' gown was of blue pussy willow, very beautifully trimmed in silver lace.

The two young matrons of the Sharon family are lovely studies—one of the blonde, the other of the brunette type.

Mrs. Herbert Brown (Florence Sharon), wore her first black gown. It was of beaded net over chiffon—the skirt beautifully trimmed in silver lace, and the touch of color on the bodice being aided by American Beauty roses. The costume was most effectively designed, and Mrs. Brown made a wonderfully beautiful study.

Mrs. Harry Farr was charming. Her reception gown was of rose chiffon, with an over-drape of tulle, with iridescent beads. The wide girdle was in Roman tones, and was most effective. Mrs. Farr was one of the very prettiest of the young matrons at the large reception.

Among the guests was Mrs. Isaac

In the receiving party was Mrs. T. C. Coogan, whose gown of rose colored charmeuse was very becoming.

Mrs. Thomas Crellin was also in the receiving party, and her gown was of black charmeuse and lace over black satin. Her ornaments were diamonds. Mrs. Frank C. Havens was also in black. Her gown was short and made with the new full skirt, and it was planned along picturesque and original lines.

Mrs. H. C. Capwell wore the very handsome gown which she wore earlier in the season at her daughter's wedding. It was a gown in tones of lavender, most elaborately trimmed in lace.

Mrs. Thomas Watson Cushing was very stunning indeed, in a superb gown of black, heavily beaded in jet, and her pretty young daughter, Miss Carmen Ghirardelli was a charming study in pink chiffon.

Mrs. Henry Eugene Jackson wore one of her handsome trousseau gowns, and among the very pretty girls who assisted the hostesses in the dining room were the Misses Ruth and Esther Sharon, Phyllis Lovell, Marguerite Black, Margaret Warren, Dorothy Capwell, Helen Coogan, and Evelyn Diersen.

Mrs. William G. Henshaw and Mrs. Victor Metcalf came together, making a picture very charming indeed. Mrs. Metcalf was in white, the skirt of the gown trimmed in wide ruffles, and the bodice beautifully trimmed in lace. A wide hat of gauze completed a very artistic afternoon costume.

Mrs. William G. Henshaw was in black, the costume showing the new lines. The hat which added to the effectiveness of the costume was of black, very simply planned but most effective. The whole color tone was most becoming to Mrs. Henshaw's blonde type.

Mrs. William Thornton White wore a costume of pussy willow silk, in tones of black, and the very attractive gown worn by Mrs. Charles Leonard Smith was also of the popular pussy willow silk.

Very handsome gowns were the order of the hour, and among those that were specially effective were the costumes worn by:

Mrs. F. M. Smith, Mrs. Arthur Crellin, Mrs. E. B. Beck, Mrs. Granville Abbott, Mrs. W. S. Goodfellow, Mrs. A. L. White, Mrs. Q. A. Chase, Mrs. Taylor Bell, Mrs. A. C. Poser, Mrs. Frank Watson, Mrs. Robert Fitzgerald, Miss Mona Crellin, Mrs. J. P. H. Dunn, Mrs. Morgan, Madame de Grassi, Mrs. George Hammer, Mrs. E. B. Braden, Mrs. Charles Butters, Mrs. C. H. Chamberlain, Mrs. Muelner, Miss Lilla Lovell, Miss Helen Tupper, Mrs. Allene Edoff, Mrs. A. D. Thomson, Mrs. Frank K. Mott, Mrs. Charles Woodbury, Mrs. Charles Butters, Mrs. Hope Gibson, Mrs. Gordon Stolp, Mrs. Beach Soule, Mrs. Edward Remillard, Mrs. George W. Percy, Mrs. Burt S. Hubbard, Mrs. A. H. Glascock, Mrs. W. H. Chickering, Mrs. Andrew Moseley, Mrs. Paul Havens, Miss Lilla Lovell, Mrs. Fred Seydel, Mrs. Florence Wing, Mrs. Gustav Vanderpooreboom, Mrs. Moylon Fox, Mrs. Thomas Hogan Jr.

Requa, who carries herself so superbly always, that she quite unconsciously preaches a lesson to everyone. She was most beautifully gowned in black, chiffon, combined with rare Chantilly lace, and her hat to match the gown added to a costume planned to add to the dignity and repose characteristic of Mrs. Requa.

Among the guests also was Mrs. Daniel Easterbrook, who was gowned in black—the overdress showing lines in pleated effects. Mrs. Easterbrook was the recipient of a very beautiful compliment recently when the by-laws of the Home Club were amended, that she might serve as its president for the third year. It showed a great appreciation of her success as president of the club, and it expressed the desire of the members that she might be its president during the important year of the Exposition.

The guests at the Sharon home had a rare musical treat. Miss Una Fairweather, recently home from a stay of many months in Europe, sang several numbers very delightfully. She was beautifully accompanied by Mr. McIntyre, of the well-known McIntyre Trio.

Many guests called at the Sharon home late in the afternoon, and in the beautiful home there was dispensed that hospitality for which it has long been famous. And after the reception there was the sunset on the hills, lighting up the roses in the garden—turning the hills to violet—and changing the bay and straits to a sea of gold. It all added to the charm of an afternoon, planned by rare hostesses, for a sweet young bride-elect.

BUSY THURSDAY IN CALENDAR OF WEEK.

Thursday was a busy day in Oakland smart set circles. There was an "at home" at the William Pierce Johnson residence at Linda Vista, for Mrs. Charles Stark Towne, who was Arline Johnson. The guest list included her young girl friends, and the young matrons who were her schoolmates. The Townes since their marriage have been living in Los Angeles, but their future home is to be in Oakland; much to the delight of their friends. Mrs. Towne and her sister, Miss Johnson, have always entertained in a generous and most fascinating fashion, and they have a beautiful home which makes a charming environment for their social affairs. Mrs. Towne and her sister are both devoted to athletics. The former has carried off many prizes in bowling, and Miss Josephine Johnson is one of the finest of the woman golfers of the state.

MANY ASSEMBLED AT THOUSAND OAKS.

Another informal tea was that given by Mrs. John Spring in her home in Thousand Oaks. Many guests endeavored to attend both the Sharon and Spring receptions, depending on a swift motor to come the distance from North Berkeley to Piedmont. So life in the foothills was very gay on Thursday.

Mrs. Spring's guests of honor were

Mrs. Wesley Jackson of Tacoma, and Miss Marie Louise Jackson, who are at the Palace, and are expecting to spend some days in San Francisco, visiting the Exposition.

There were many guests at the tea from Berkeley, and from other parts of Oakland, and they were made welcome by Mrs. Spring and her daughters, Mrs. Friend, Mrs. Newell, Mrs. Murdock, and the Misses Anne and Dorothy Spring.

NOTABLES COMING TO VISIT AT EXPOSITION.

Among the guests expected in the near future from the East are Senator and Mrs. Newlands, the Willis Walkers of Minneapolis, the Zabrispies of New York, and the John D. Isaacs of Chicago.

While the Newlands have a beautiful country home, "Cherry Chase," near Washington, they are always regarded as "Pacific Coast people," and much entertained when they come to California. They are great friends of the Sharons of Piedmont, and of the Frederick Sharons of Menlo Park.

The Willis Walkers of Minneapolis are to be the guests of the Clinton Walkers of Piedmont, and will visit with them the big forest reserves in Lassen county, the property of the Red River Lumber company.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Isaacs, who formerly lived in Oakland, will be accompanied by their daughter, Miss Lillian Isaacs, who was one of the beautiful girls of the smart set here. The Isaacs now live in Chicago, where Mr. Isaacs holds a most important position in Southern Pacific affairs.

The Zabrispies are great friends of the F. M. Smiths, and they will be here to visit their daughter who was Miss Zayda Zabrispie, and who married Frank Buck. Mr. and Mrs. Buck have an attractive home in Piedmont. The wedding in New York, some months ago, of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buck, was a social event of much importance.

COLONIAL BALL TAKES PRECEDENCE ALREADY.

As the days go by, it begins to be evident how very successful an affair the Colonial ball will be on next Saturday evening. Already the ballroom is taxed to its capacity, and there are still demands for table reservations. The committees are all doing their work well; among those very active being Mrs. W. E. Sharon, Mrs. Herbert Hamilton Brown, Mrs. Joseph F. Carlston, and Mrs. Willard Williamson.

Some of the white-haired matrons, who are among the most stunning and handsomest women in our city, are rejoicing that their hair is "already Colonial," and the younger matrons will have their hair powdered. Fancy dress is not obligatory, but one ought to wear anything in the way of jewels, shawls, or laces that has come down from Colonial days.

Old-time families have been very good about lending heirlooms, and there will be in evidence cups of gold and blue china on a table of old design. Brass, pewter, and old silver from Revolutionary days will be used. One will see also old fashioned jewelry, big cameos, high combs, and above all, lovely old fashioned gowns, befringed and with paniers, just as they were worn in the days of long ago, by the sweet young maids and matrons who made the social life of these picturesque old days. For beautiful women added a charm to life then, as they do now.

The Colonial dinner dansant is already a success—for there is nothing that appeals more than "play-time"—and "to play one is somebody else"—has always been an amusement of the smart set.

Mrs. George Doubleday (Alice Moffitt), is spending very delightful days among old California friends, many of whom are entertaining for her. She is part of the time with Mrs. Moffitt at Piedmont, and she also is the house guest of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Moffitt across the bay.

There were two social dates arranged this week for Mrs. Doubleday. Mrs. James K. Moffitt (Pauline Fore), gave a luncheon for her, inviting to meet the guest of honor the young matrons who were her school mates in high school days. Mrs. Wallace Alexander gave an afternoon for her, entertaining in her home, "Gray Gables," at Piedmont, where very much the same group of guests assembled to greet Mrs. Doubleday. She is not to remain very long in California, and her days during her stay are to be very full of social dates.

PICTURES IN THE MEDDLER.

Miss Clara Brune is one of the recently engaged girls, her betrothal to Mr. Jay Ray McKinley of Oregon, having been announced last week. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Brune of East Oakland.

Mrs. Dudley Bliss is a prominent young matron of San Francisco society who is frequently entertained on this side of the bay. She was Miss Marie Payne before her marriage.

Miss Florence Don is one of the popular girls of the younger set in Oakland. She was a member of several of the dancing clubs during the winter, and has been hostess at several informal affairs for her friends.

Mrs. Louise Cummings is well known in society on both sides of the bay. She is the sister-in-law of Mr. Earl Cummings, the sculptor, and is identified with the interesting social set to which the Earl Cummings, Edgar Peixotos, and others belong.

EASTER BRILLIANCE AT WEDDINGS OF THE WEEK.

The social events following Easter for the most part center around the brides of the season, for important weddings are usually scheduled for Easter week, and these are, besides, all the compliments paid to the brides-elect of the season. Each girl who finds herself a member of a wedding party plans to entertain for the bride, and her relations do likewise, so there are many social events to make the days of the after-Easter season busy ones. There has grown to be a community of social interests inviting both sides of the bay, since family circles around the bay are large ones, and there is besides a great interchange of social courtesies than used to be possible in former days.

Among the large weddings of the week were the church weddings of Walter McLeod and Miss Olive Wheeler, and of George Nickel and Miss Ernestine McNear, both marriages being solemnized in St. Luke's church.

The McNears come of a family which has lived many years in Oakland, and it is only a few months ago since the George McNear's sold their home in Piedmont. Since then they have been living in the Theriot home, across the bay, but it is their intention to again establish their home here in the near future. There were nearly a thousand guests assembled in St. Luke's church on Tuesday, at high noon, for the wedding. In the family connection of the McNears are many relatives, and almost every prominent family on this side of the bay received invitations to the wedding. The guest list included also families from Burlingame, from Ross, from Petaluma, and the scene in the church was a very brilliant one. Easter hats and lovely spring gowns were much in evidence, adding to the charming color scheme.

An Easter wedding always means lovely decorations, and the beautiful Bermuda or St. Joseph lily seems especially suited to a bride. St. Luke's church has never been more beautifully decorated, the rose being used as the motif for many artistic effects. A splendid arch of rambler oes outlined the steps of the chancel, and there were lovely rose trees in flower outlining the walls of the altar. The altar expressed the spirit of the season, for it was a mass of Easter lilies. The bride is one of the most cultured girls in smart set circles around the bay, and she deserves her popularity for she's very unspoiled, and very pretty, indeed. She is a charming blonde, with shining blue eyes, and very lovely coloring, and her mother and sister express the same type.

Mrs. Nickel has charming manners, and good measurements. She was educated at the Horton school, at Farmington, in the East, where so many of the New York girls attend school, and in Paris.

She made a very beautiful bride, wearing one of the most elaborate costumes seen anywhere in smart circles this year. The gown of white satin was finished with a broad train of satin and lovely Duchesse lace was used in great profusion in the skirt and bodice of the gown.

The long tulle veil was held in place low on the forehead by a wreath of orange blossoms, and the wedding bouquet was also of orange blossoms and orchids.

Miss Elanin McNear, who is just home from New York, is very like her older sister, and she made a most fascinating study, in an extremely pretty gown all in tones of pink. She was a very picturesque and fascinating little maid of honor. She looked very young and very pretty in a gown of pink satin and pink chiffon, the costume completed by a wide picture hat of pink, trimmed with roses, and the pink roses she carried seemed specially appropriate.

There was much skill shown in the color scheme planned for the bridesmaids' gowns. They were of pink, following the color scheme of the wedding. But the pink was varied, for the overdresses were different. Two were finished in yellow, two in green and two in orchid tones. The bridesmaids all carried showers of picturesque pink rambler roses, and they wore wide hats of pink tulle.

Mrs. George McNear has always been considered one of the most attractive matrons around the bay. She is always perfectly gowned, and she was a most attractive study at her daughter's wedding. She was gowned in white satin, beautifully trimmed in black lace, a Parisian effect, being achieved with the pale blue girdle and with the yellow roses which trimmed her picture hat.

The wedding breakfast was served at the Fairmont, and the big ballroom has never carried decorations more effectively arrayed. The bride's table was a mass of spring bloom, and in the center was an arch of spring flowers, underneath which was the wedding cake. The places were marked by dainty wreaths of orange blossoms tied with a bow of tulle.

Among the beautiful costumes at the wedding reception were those worn by:

Mrs. George McNear, Mrs. George Nickel, Sr., Mrs. E. B. Bowles, Mrs. Bernard Ford, Mrs. Fred McNear, Mrs. John McNear, Mrs. Edward McNear, Mrs. C. O. G. Miller, Miss Annie Miller, Miss Marjorie Gibson, Mrs. Charles Ewener, Miss Ethel Havemeyer, Miss Vera Havemeyer, Mrs. John Gaillos (Elizabeth), Mrs. John Gaillos (Elizabeth), Mrs. William Henshaw, Mrs. Tyler Henshaw, Mrs. Herbert, Mrs. Templeton Crocker, Mrs. George Nickel, Sr., Mrs. Hilson Johnson, Jr., Mrs. William Pierce, Mrs. Josephine Johnson, Miss Ruth Hascinsin, Mrs. A. C. Jack, Mrs. A. C. McDonald, Mrs. F. C. Havens, Mrs. F. C. Havens, Mrs. Harold Spens, Mrs. Miss Goodall, Mrs. Harry Knowles, Mrs. John Knowles, Mrs. Henry Bozich, Mrs. Nellie Chabon, Mrs. William Henshaw, Mrs. Elizabeth Sherman, Mrs. Bentley, Mrs. Templeton Crocker.

The George Nickels are to make their home on one of the large ranches owned by Mrs. Nickel, Senior. Life on the ranches of California today is not what it used to be—now that the motor has eliminated long distances. California girls are athletic—they are fond of outdoor life and of the country. They spend week-ends in town, and in their turn entertain their friends—and California's country homes remain open most of the year.

The presents given the young people will serve to make their new home very beautiful indeed. No bride of the year has received so many presents, many of them costly and elaborate, and most of them artistic and beautiful.

COL. JACKLING SPRINGS SURPRISE ON SOCIETY.

The wedding of Col. Daniel Jackling and Miss Virginia Jolliffe was no surprise to the many friends of the family, who have watched with interest the very marked attentions of Col. Jackling to Miss Jolliffe. It was only the date of the wedding which came as a surprise. Col. Jackling is a copper magnate and rich, indeed, and his bride is one of the seven Jolliffe sisters, so well known around the bay.

Their father was a sea captain, who died when they were all very young, and their mother gave her seven girls an exceptionally fine training. Their uncle was the late Captain Matthews, whose home on Webster street, opposite the convent, was one of the pioneer homes of the city. His nieces were often over here, and one of them, Marguerite, now Mrs. Herbert Moffitt, spent a great deal of time in her uncle's household. She was a playmate and very intimate from Miss Stearns' sister, Mrs. Imogene Hopkins, 378 Irving place, Milwaukee, Wis. Miss Stearns became violent yesterday, and was kept under

WIFE PLEADS FOR WOMAN'S DEPORTATION.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—Declaring that her husband has left his home for the sake of Pearl de la Farge, a cafe entertainer, Mrs. Leo F. Thurler, a society woman of San Mateo and San Francisco, yesterday appealed to the federal authorities to have the woman deported.

"My husband would be pleased to return home if that woman was sent away," Mrs. Thurler wrote. She stated that she had found a receipt in her husband's pocket showing that he had provided for Pearl de la Farge when he righted to land at this port was questioned. Her husband, employed in a managerial capacity by Shreve & Co., receives $10,000 a year, she declared.

W. T. Boyce, assistant commissioner of immigration at Angel Island, yesterday denied that deportation proceedings were pending against Pearl de la Farge, though admitting that inquiries had been received regarding the possibility of the government being induced to deport her. The Thurlers have three children, the youngest only a few months old.

CALIFORNIA NUISE WEDDED IN FRANCE.

PARIS, April 10.—The fact that the labor of caring for French wounded had not prevented the development of a romance in the American ambulance service became known yesterday when Carroll Greenough of New York, attached to the ambulance chapel at Neuilly, was married in the ambulance chapel to Miss Margaret Virginia Greole, daughter of Edwin Greole of Pasadena, Cal., who has charge of the special diet kitchen connected with the ambulance.

MRS. CHRISTOFFERSON MAY RETAIN JEWELS.

OREGON CITY, Ore., April 10.—Mrs. Emma Edna Christofferson, wife of Silas Christofferson, the actor, came off victorious in the circuit court here in a suit brought against her by J. S. Ferree, a railroad man of Portland, to recover money and jewels which she declared he had lavished on her prior to her marriage.

Judge J. V. Campbell listened to the evidence in the case and then ordered the clerk to enter a non-suit.

"You're stung," he said to Ferree, "but you will have to make the best of it."

SHOOTS SELF AFTER FAILING WITH POISON

WASHINGTON, N. J., April 10.—Three successive nights, before setting, Theodore Block, a 70-year-old farmer, took morphia, hoping to be dead the following morning, when the next collector would come around. Each morning he found himself still very much alive, though more despondent. His attempts on Friday, Saturday and Sunday having failed, he took a revolver with him to bed Monday night. Tuesday morning he was dead.

According to Mrs. Harry Ward, daughter of the aged farmer's housekeeper, Block took an overdose of laudanum for three nights, but each time strong coffee prevented fatal effects of the poison. The woman pleaded vainly with him when he announced that he would take his revolver with him to bed. He had pulled the bed covering over his head to prevent the shot being heard.

SWISS TO COLONIZE MEXICAN WEST COAST

SAN FRANCISCO, April 10.—With the coming of 2000 Swiss families to settle on the land once wanted on the Japanese on the west coast of Mexico, an end has come to a Japanese project that threatened to strain the relations between Japan and the United States.

These Swiss are the forerunners of others who are to come. They will be located on about 50,000 acres of land on Magdalena bay. The Japanese colonization scheme, which attracted the adverse attention of the United States government, is dead.

Dr. H. Arnold of Zurich, one of the Swiss leaders of the project, arrived yesterday and is at the St. Francis. The plan has the approval of the cantonal government of Berne, he says, and a Swiss commission, consisting of Professor A. Heit of Zurich, Professor Hartmann of Aarau, Dr. E. B. von Zuerich and Engineer Kuhn is on the way from San Diego to Magdalena bay to superintend the survey of the land.

CHEMISTS MAY ESTABLISH MURDER

Mysterious Case of Little Helen Honderbille Being Investigated by Experts.

MARTINEZ, April 10.—Chemists today are playing test tube and Bunsen burner, probing what may develop into one of the queerest murder cases ever reported in California, and may lead to evidence tending to show that little Helen Honderbille, 7 years old, was murdered, following the death of her father, a soldier in the French army, and the subsequent death of her mother, who died of grief when her husband passed away.

The child, a ward of the French Government, was sent to America, to the home of her uncle, John Honderbille, a landman of Antioch, some months ago. She died in violent convulsions on March 14, and at the time the explanation was given out that a quantity of poppies she had eaten had caused her death. This explanation was accepted, although Dr. E. A. Diggins, who investigated the case, declared that the child's death more resembled strychnine.

The investigation was ordered when, after consideration of the facts in the case, Conner C. C. Abbott decided that the inquiry made into the death had not been sufficient. Rumors of foul play, heard in the neighborhood, reached the ears of the coroner's assistants and urgent demands of neighbors of the Honderbilles for an investigation were made.

The little body was exhumed and an investigation started, to ascertain whether or not traces of strychnine were present. It being declared that indications pointed to this poison as a possible explanation of the little one's symptoms.

According to the story of Dr. Diggins, the child died without medical attention after being seized with an illness that terminated in violent convulsions. The affair aroused the citizens of Antioch to a high pitch of excitement. Following the inquiries of the coroner into the case

THAW MAY EXERCISE OUT DOORS, BUT ALL JOY RIDES ARE BARRED

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, April 10.—Harry K. Thaw, held in the Tombs prison awaiting a decision of the appellate division of the Supreme Court on his appeal from an order of Justice Pigo to send him back to Matteawan Asylum, may enjoy today his first stroll about the streets of New York in many a day.

Under order of Supreme Court Justice Ingraham, obtained by Thaw's counsel, Sheriff Griffenhagen was permitted within his discretion to allow Thaw to take "reasonable exercise at reasonable hours." The nature of this exercise depends upon the sheriff's judgment.

Reports that Thaw would be seen in places he formerly visited here were denied by Abel I. Smith, of Thaw's counsel, who said that "there will be no parties or joy rides, theaters or anything of that kind. Thaw, as far as the law is concerned, is an innocent man and he has a right to proper care and should not have his health impaired. That is the reason the justice signed the order to allow him exercise."

LIVERPOOL DOCK FIRE MAY CONGEST FREIGHT

By Associated Press.
LIVERPOOL, April 10.—Damage estimated at several hundred thousand dollars was caused last night by a fire in the Stanley warehouse on the Mersey docks, one of the largest storage centers in the world, for tobacco in bond. The flames finally were brought under control after several vessels had been moved from their berths. It is feared the fire may further aggravate the serious congestion of freight in the docks.

The investigation was ordered when, after consideration of the facts in the case, Conner C. C. Abbott decided that the inquiry made into the death had not been sufficient. Rumors of foul play, heard in the neighborhood, reached the ears of the coroner's assistants and urgent demands of neighbors of the Honderbilles for an investigation were made.

DOCTOR KILLS GIRL, FATHER AND SELF

Colombian Suitor Rejected, Wreaks Awful Revenge on Family.

By Associated Press.
PANAMA, Friday, April 9.—The little island of St. Andres, off the north coast of Colombia, has just been the scene of a triple tragedy involving an American and his daughter and a native physician who recently graduated from an American medical school in Memphis, Tenn.

According to information arriving by schooner, Dr. Z. Pusey first killed a Miss Robinson and then shot her father, Theodore Robinson, later turning his revolver upon himself, blowing out his brains.

For some time the doctor had been a frequent visitor at the home of the Robinsons, and finally paid Miss Robinson marked attention. His suit was not viewed with favor by the young woman's parents, and the physician was given to understand that he must cease his visits.

WEST COAST FLEES WITH BABE FROM WILD KURDS

Former Oakland Girl in Dread Zone Adventist Missionary Wife Tells of Sufferings

To flee on horseback with his wife and four-week-old baby before an infuriated mob of Kurds is the experience which came to Elder Frank F. Oster, a Seventh Day Adventist missionary in Persia, as given by him in a communication just received by friends here. He was obliged to flee from Maragha, leaving everything behind. The Kurds plundered the town the day after he left. He reports many Christians and Moslems killed by Kurds at Mandoab and Urumiah. Seventh-day Adventists having a company in the latter place.

Elder Oster has many friends on the Pacific coast, having lived in Portland, Oregon, and Wells, Wash. His wife formerly was Miss Florence White, a daughter of Elder W. B. White, formerly president of the Pacific Union Conference of the Adventists. Her home was in Oakland.

Writing to friends in America Mrs. Oster describes the hardships of Persian missionaries. She says:

"You see by the heading that we are in Tabriz. The dreadful Kurds came down on Maragha, and we fled, as did nearly all Christians there. The city of Mandoab, that the Kurds took before they came to Maragha, was plundered and burned by them. The children were thrown into the ice cold river and the women were treated dreadfully.

"Such news came to us, so we bought a horse and left by night with the Russian army of 800 men retreating from Mandoab. I rode the horse with our four-week-old baby, while Mr. Oster led him. We left everything except what we had on our backs and fled in the saddle bags. Mr. Oster carried a small slip on his back.

"The first 12 hours were anxious ones. The soldiers were afraid of an attack any time; they marched in dead silence. When baby cried the officers asked me to cover her face. I fear the army would hear. The road was terrible. For it had been snowing; then, too, we did not take the good road, but went in a roundabout way over the mountains to avoid the Kurds and Turks. That first night and day I kept the saddle for 14 hours without rest.

"I must not tell more, only that we arrived safely. I felt better than when I started, only very tired. Winona Lucile stood the trip fine. We fell off the horse once right in a small stream. A soldier helped us a bit. He thought baby was a bundle of something we did not wish to throw her over to one side of the road. (Some things we had taken had to be left on the road at this place, for the load was too heavy for the horse.) Mr. Oster had fixed straps on a board, and we put baby next to this board, then the baby on the pillow, and a smaller pillow on top; then baby and pillows were strapped tight to the board, and fastened to the front of the saddle. She seemed to enjoy the ride, and did not care whether it was up or down, or how much she was jolted.

"We have been wonderfully cared for by God. The Kurds and Turks took this place also, but no murdering took place. Now the Russians have taken Tabriz, and we feel quite safe again. Just six weeks from here, 200 Kurds were killed, 500 taken prisoners, and about 500 escaped. The ground was strewn with their bodies. Because of their defeat we fear they will take vengeance on Maragha, but we cannot tell. As yet the Russians are not strongly enough engaged to force the Kurds to help. We do not know if they must wait until they are through fighting the Germans or not. FLEEING BAREFOOT.

"This is a dreadful time throughout the world. We have seen much real suffering. Hundreds of refugees are fleeing through the snow barefooted. Many are dying from starvation. It is just too terrible. We are kindly cared for here by the Presbyterian missionaries from America. We are not yet out of danger, for the Kurds are strong near the boundary with the Kurds to help. We surely have something to fear. We are trusting in God, who is much mightier than all these armies. We are safe in his keeping."

A perilous journey Elder Oster recently made through the country of the war-like

PARKHURST IS TO HAVE HEARING

Oakland Church Body's Accusations to Be Filed Against Minister in N. Y.

Charges of conduct unbecoming a minister will be filed against the Rev. H. Parkhurst, pastor of the Madison Square Presbyterian Church of New York, before the New York Presbytery at a meeting to be held next Monday evening. The charges are a direct result of the complaint made by the Oakland Presbytery, following the receipt here of telegrams from Dr. Parkhurst urging that the cause of prohibition be defeated.

Dr. Parkhurst's present predicament is due to first a telegram, followed by a letter, to C. A. Sbarboro, San Francisco banker and official of the Wine Men's Association, in which he declared that California should remain "wet" because of the state's wine industry. Both telegram and letter were long and voluminous, following the receipt here of telegrams from Dr. Parkhurst urging that the cause of prohibition be defeated.

The "wets" immediately seized upon both communications, and published them broadcast. The Oakland Presbytery immediately took steps to gather up several hundred of daily newspapers, all of which contained the telegram to Sbarboro, and expressed them to the officials of the New York Presbytery.

No charges were preferred by the local Presbytery, but a note of query accompanied the bundle of papers, asking if such a telegram was deemed as becoming to the conduct of a Presbyterian minister. The fact that the telegram and letter arrived the latter part of October, less than two weeks before the November election, therefore making excellent "wet" campaign materials, added fuel to the fire of the local Presbytery's anger.

It is on these developments that the charges against Dr. Parkhurst will be filed and considered next Monday evening in New York.

ROAD CONDITIONS ON ALL PRINCIPAL HIGHWAYS MUCH IMPROVED THIS WEEK

Road conditions on nearly every main highway are improving. Work is going ahead where betterments are needed.

The road beyond the TUNNEL TO WALNUT CREEK is in bad shape now but re-construction is in progress. County Surveyor Arnold stated on Monday of last week that but three weeks work was necessary to complete the section which is now in very poor condition. For a distance of about six miles this side of Walnut Creek the poorest road lies.

The ALTAMONT PASS is still unfinished but travel through here is safe though rough for about six miles.

From HAYWARD TO NILES the road work is going ahead in good condition and the date of completion is expected to be made known during the coming week.

Through MILPITAS the road is still bad and the detour over the Calaveras road, thence to Dempsey Road to Capital Avenue to Hostetter road, Murphy Ave. and back to the highway just outside San Jose, the best way to avoid the Calaveras road is reached just before entering Milpitas.

THE NILES CANYON ROAD is in good condition now. During the past two weeks trout fishing has been pretty good in the Niles stream. The fish are not out in large numbers.

RICHMOND FERRY, opening date is announced for late this month.

COAST ROUTE SOUTH—Leave Oakland via the Foothill Boulevard to Hayward. Take the State Highway as far as Decoto. Turn right here, head of road to the left, a choice of two routes is then possible. Continue one mile and turn left through Nurseries and come into Niles back of Eschmayer Film plant, or continue two miles on the Decoto road to the junction of the Centerville road and then turn left on the main road to San Jose. (From Hayward, the road is fine. (Rough between Sargent and San Juan), thence over San Juan grade to Salinas, and over dirt road via King City and San Ardo to Bradley. Ford of Salinas river below Bradley easily made. Construction between Bradley and San Miguel rough but passable and function. Miguel to San Luis Obispo practically completed State Highway. From San Luis Obispo via Edna, Arroyo Grande to Santa Maria (ford of Santa Maria river easily made) through Foxen Canyon to Los Olivos, and over San Marcos Pass (avoid Gaviota Pass, Santa Barbara, San Marcos Pass is being repaired. Santa Barbara over Rincon road to Ventura, thence via Newberry Park, Ojai, to Los Angeles.)

VALLEY ROUTE SOUTH: Leave Oakland via Twelfth st. to Twenty-third, then north one block to Foothill boulevard, thence over Hayward road, over Altamont Pass road, road to railroad trestle, then ten miles rough road to State Highway, and over Highway to Eureka, cut-off road to Manteca, Modesto, Merced, to Placerville road. Short detour to Placerville and back to Highway at Manteca, thence over Highway to Kingsburg, below Fresno, and over main road through Cochen, Tulare, Tipton, Pixley, Fresno, and highway to Bakersfield, Edison, White Wolf grade, Te-

BERKELEY BOSS of STUDENTS AND RESIDENTS IN UNIVERSITY TOWN AND ALAMEDA SOCIAL & PERSONAL HAPPENINGS OF DAY in the ISLAND CITY

MONDAY ELECTION DAY IN ALAMEDA

Changes in Polling Places Are Made by Council; List of Candidates.

ALAMEDA, April 10.—Alameda's municipal election will take place next Monday, the polls opening at 5 a. m. and closing at 7 p. m. The campaign has been one of the quietest in the history of the city and there is much conjecture as to the outcome. Each candidate has been on a comprehensive campaign and in several instances public meetings have been held.

One fact to which attention is directed is that in all sections of Alameda, the same ticket is voted. Some observers believe that they should only vote for the councilman in the ward in which they reside. This is not the case. The charter provides that the candidates for councilmen be nominated from wards, but electors may over the city vote for all ward councilmen.

The city council has ruled that the voting booths be placed in schools, wherever possible, and as a result several of the booths have been changed. Here are some of the instances:

Second precinct, Lincoln school, instead of at Mount Street and Central avenue.

Sixth precinct, Park street and Lincoln avenue, instead of on Webb avenue.

Eighth precinct, Alameda high school, instead of at Mount Street and Central avenue.

Tenth precinct, Haight school, instead of at Central avenue and Willow street.

Twentieth precinct, Mastick school, instead of Mount and Ninth streets.

Twenty-second, Washington school, instead of at Eighth street and Taylor avenue.

Twenty-fourth, Longfellow school, instead of at Pacific avenue and Fifth street.

Candidates and propositions are:

Mayor—Frank H. Bartlett, W. N. Noy, S. W. Shaffer, Socialist.

Treasurer—Oswald Lubbock, J. Edgar Morgan, Socialist.

Councilman-at-large—Maud C. Keator, Socialist; W. S. Lane, Charles W. MacRae and John H. Walker.

Councilman—Second Ward—J. E. Brubaker, W. L. Kern, Socialist; John H. Wilkins.

Councilman—Fourth Ward—E. B. Bullock, Thomas H. Fudd, and S. Miller, Socialist.

Councilman—Fifth Ward—Isabelle M. Arnold, Socialist; William Hammond, J. J. R. R. R.

Councilman—Seventh Ward—Robert C. Dunbar, Socialist; E. J. Probst.

Proposition No. 1 is to repeal an ordinance and amend a street law, so that all streets be placed underground. It has been found that it would cost the city over a million dollars to place the city's electric light plant wires underground.

ENCUBATOR INFANT IS LUCKY CHILD FOR WORNOUT OTHER

BERKELEY, April 10.—A baby that came too soon has brought good fortune to Mrs. Jane Paroline, its mother, for the first time in years. Because of it she has found at the incubator concession on the zone at the Exposition not only shelter and care for her child, but a good salary for herself as well.

Mrs. Paroline's baby was born two weeks ago in the police ambulance while the mother was lastly being carried to Roosevelt hospital from the Exposition, where she had fallen helpless. The babe was removed later to Alta Bates sanitarium by Miss Sarah Shaw of the city dispensary.

It is the first time since she was a girl of 12 and started out to work that she has had rest, says Mrs. Paroline. She declares that when she was 16, her parents forced her into a marriage against her will. After having borne her husband three children, making the family's living during most of the seven-year period in which they came, Mrs. Paroline declares she rebelled at last against his cruelties. HOW THEY BECAME FIGHTERS

How did they happen to become prize fighters? A new champion answers the question this week. "My father like Jim Jeffries' dad came from Ohio," said Jess Willard, "but I was born in Kansas. "I farmed and broke branches and rode them until I grew too heavy. "Then I put in a good deal of time hunting, fishing, playing ball and running footraces. "Before I was 20 I could beat any boy in Pottawatomie county running a hundred yards, and was considered the best athlete in Kansas. Then I commenced boxing, and I could easily put it over the best boys in our neighborhood. "I never got a chance to fight in preliminary bouts and when I set out it was to meet Louis Fink a real professional at Sapulpa, Oklahoma. That was on February 15, 1911. We went at it hammer and tongs and I probably would have won but for the fact that the referee saw fit to give the decision to Fink on a foul that was about the only way I could lose. "I have always felt that I could beat any man living. This confidence perhaps came from the fact that I am the biggest man in the business, and for the reason I have always led an outdoor and temperate life. "I am so strong, in fact, that I have won many a fight without bringing all my strength into play."

Freddie O'Brien started out in life as a newsboy and beat the amateurs until he became known as the "Fridge of the Crescent City." At this stage Terry McGovern, the "Invincible" happened along and came out with a challenge to box any man in New Orleans. O'Brien's friends coaxed him to accept the challenge. "When I arranged to meet McGovern," says O'Brien, "I agreed to stand up with him for four rounds, and the understanding was that there should be no slugging. We were just to tap each other lightly and go in for points. Terry had always felt that I could beat any man living, and finally I came to the conclusion that it would be a great thing for me to be able to say I had knocked him out. "The good opening I was looking for came at last, and I landed one squarely under his jaw that shook him like an Arkansas chili. He staggered, fell against the scenery, and seemed to be right on the edge of the jumping off place. I tried to follow it up and hit him for sure, but the little fellow rallied and came at me. There was fire in his eye. He reached me with both hands about a hundred times. It seemed like it was raining cannon balls. At last I felt as though a big stone slab had fallen on me. That was when Terry's terrible left caught me right on the point of the jaw. Yes, I came to, but I was never the same fellow afterwards."

John L. Sullivan has often told the story of how he became a pugilist. "I was a ball player before I became a fighter," says John L., in telling his life story. "I was playing in games around Boston and boxing a bout occasionally just for the fun of it. "Having made up my mind to become a fighter, I went at it in a systematic way. I never had a teacher. I never took a boxing lesson in my life. I watched other boxers keenly and appropriated the best of their styles. I was strong and that made it easy for me to experiment. "The first regular sparring match they would call it a fight these days—that I ever had was in 1873, when I met Johnny Woods, better known as "Cocky" Woods, in Cockerill Hall, Hanover street, Boston. He was also a Bostonian and was a man of considerable reputation, having been matched to fight Egan, the Benicia Boy. After a little preliminary sizing up I planned a clean wallop and he was out. "You understand that at this time practically all championship fights were fought under the old London prize ring rules. They differ vastly from the Marquis of Queensberry rules that are used today."

Arthur Flint at one time considered one of the best lightweights in the middle west started out in life as a horseshoer. "Charley and Dan Daly were the champion lightweights of that part and the horseshoers were always hunting around for some boxer to meet them. At last they induced Flint to tackle Dan, the eldest of the Daly brothers. They fought with skin tight gloves that made the knuckles hard as steel. "I thought I was winning," said Flint in telling his story of the fight, "until Dan landed that right punch to my jaw. "Then the ground gave away and I felt as though I was sinking into some deep place. I kept going down and down until I struck something hard and then I stopped. I saw all kinds of lights on my journey. I thought the boys were giving me a reception and that the torch lights were being carried in honor of my victory. I heard the news boys shouting out the account of the battle and I was feeling immensely proud till some one gave me a push into the river. But it wasn't that. It was only a part of it. You see just then someone had reached us with a bucket of river water and had doused me with it. Then I came too only to learn the sad truth."

Frank Schieberle, the great little featherweight who has been beating some of the best boys of the middle west, was a train boy in Iowa before he set out as a prize fighter. That is how he came to be known as "Sneaky" Schieberle. Schieberle's friends nicknamed him the "king of the ring" for his invincibility for he had beaten all comers and when he met little Ollie Bishop in the St. Louis Coliseum they bet their last dollar on him. They had never dreamed that Ollie would be able to take the measure of their man. One single blow did the business. It landed on the point of Schieberle's chin. "Just then," said Schieberle, "I thought the roof of the Coliseum had fallen in on me and the blows that came at me were like rain. I felt like as if the rafters from the roof were coming at me from every direction."

Jimmy Handler had a queer experience in the beginning of his first real fight. Jimmy starting out as a messenger boy in Newark put on the gloves with the best amateurs and beat them easily. Then he launched a challenge at Billy Vernon, then known as the "fighting brickmaker." In the first part of that battle Vernon put in some jolts that nearly blinded the Newark lad. But Handler was game and although dizzy and staggering, he managed to land a rap that put Vernon fast asleep. Handler was still groggy when he went down to his dressing room, and sitting down he began to weep copiously. "What's the matter with you," inquired one of his helpers. "I'm sick that's all," was the reply. "Will he give me another match?" asked the fighter. "What's he want to fight him again, when he's put him out?" "Didn't he lick me?" "Now," was the response. It was half an hour before Handler could divest himself of the impression that he had been whipped by Vernon.

Harry Sharpe, once a great lightweight and now the recognized referee and fight authority around St. Louis started out as a printer. He took up boxing for his health and the Dalys trained him and showed him how to beat anything of his weight. Sharpe's first fight was a terrific affair with skin-tight gloves with Frank Crosby as his opponent. It took place at Nameki, Ill., a station on the Wabash, a few miles from St. Louis. The battle was commenced just after Sunday dinner and the boys labored each other till darkness came and the lights were lighted. The fight only ended when Sharpe landed a square knockout blow that sent the back of Crosby's head to the wooden floor with a fearful thump. Sharpe was a terrific fighter for many moments, but when he was himself again he said: "When the back of my head hit the floor I thought I had fallen from a house into a great river and I kept on going down until I struck the sandy bottom. Then I saw all kinds of pretty fishes, and I was reaching out to grab one of them when Eddie Kelly shook me and woke me up." "What's the matter, Frank," he asked me. "Oh, nothing, Eddie," said I. "But if you had let me alone I would have brought you a nice string of fish." And to this day I guess Eddie is wondering what I meant.

STANFORD AND U. C.

MEETING TODAY IN SECOND GAME

Stanford and California meet this afternoon at California Field, Berkeley, at 2:30. In the second ball game of the intercollegiate series, California won the first game by a 10-0 victory. The Cardinal hopes to reverse the tables today. California will again use Dodge in the box, while Stanford will depend upon Hayes. The lineup:

WINS SOLO GAME
In an exciting and very interesting game of solo, G. G. Caldwell, Berkeley, at 400 points, Glacomi is commended to be one of the best solo players on this side of the bay. Seems as if Walter McCredie is using some of the same tactics that enabled him to discover such finds as Van Cress, Bill Stein, Bill James, Tom Seaton, etc. His latest discovery is Stanley McCredie, a New York boy who held the hard-hitting Bee crew to four hits yesterday.

Teuton Gunner, Oaks' Best Bet

"Dutch" Klawitter, the "Big Krupp," who is now the main reliance of the Oakland squad.

Seals Again Nose Out the Venetians

In a game, far removed from good baseball, the Seals again nosed out the Venetians in a ten-inning struggle, 9-8. There were a fearful number of errors on both sides which a kindly scorer converted into runs. The theory that the infield is far from being in good condition. The pitching was also off-color on both sides. Neither West or Klawitter, who started the game, had any control, and Percy and Barham, who succeeded them, were not much better. Pernell got into the corps in time to get credit for winning the battle. The score:

PASSPORTS REQUIRED TO ENTER HONG KONG

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 10.—Authorities at Hong Kong require all persons passing through that colony to show passports, according to advice to the state department from the American consul-general there. A contrary impression had prevailed among American tourists, it was said, resulting in much inconvenience to them.
